Washing Machine Hints

Helpful Tips to Make Your Washing Machine Work More Efficiently

- 1. Too Much Detergent - Some people think using more detergent will make your clothes cleaner while in fact it does not. Using too much detergent could damage your machine with it having to work harder than usual to produce more water to remove soapy residue. Make sure to follow your machine's recommended measurements!
- 2. Over Stuffing Your Machine - Putting too many clothes into your machine is not recommended. This causes issues of your clothes not being completely clean and your machine needing to work extra hard. Please only put an appropriate amount of clothes in each cycle and if needed do multiple loads to save your machine's operating life!
- 3. Avoid Mold Buildup - In case you didn't know, washing machines are a place where mold can grow if not taken care of properly. Moisture builds up and insufficient drying can cause bacteria to grow. Best practice is to leave your machine door open for a few hours after each cycle to allow it to dry and avoid mold.

Spring Gardening In Your Apartment

With summer just around the corner, May is a great time of year to start thinking of growing plants and vegetables! A great place to do this is with our resident gardening volunteers or individually in your apartment. Your patios and balconies are a great spot for sunshine and space. However, keep your neighbors in mind when you are considering this. Don't soil or throw water from your balcony that could fall onto your neighbors below. Reminder to be considerate of what items you plant that could attract bugs and insects to your home as well.

REFLECTIONS

HIGHLIGHTS FROM MEMORY CARE

Greetings from Reflections,

We are so excited to welcome the month of May! Warmer weather means it's time to plant our gardens and spend time outside on the patio. Our friends at ProAg in Maple Grove will be delivering May Day baskets to us on May 1st. Todd Anderson will be giving a special performance as Neil Diamond on May 2nd. We are also recognizing all of our amazing moms for Mother's Day.

According to the Alzheimer's Association, here are a few things that a person with early-stage Alzheimer's would like you to know:

- I'm still the same person I was before my diagnosis.
 - My independence is important to me; ask me what I'm still comfortable doing and what I may need help with.
 - It's essential that I stay engaged. Invite me to do activities we both enjoy.
 - Don't make assumptions because of my diagnosis. Alzheimer's affects each person differently.
 - Ask me how I'm doing. I'm living with a disease, just like cancer or heart disease.
 - I can still engage in meaningful conversation. Talk directly to me if you want to know how I am.
 - Don't pull away. It's OK if you don't know what to do or say. I value your friendship and support.

Meaningful May 2024

Meaningful; to have a meaning or purpose, full of meaning: significant.

There are subtle differences between a happy life and a meaningful life. When we aim for a life of meaningful pursuits, we are likely to feel more sustained happiness and life satisfaction-even if there is some discomfort, sadness, or stress along the way-than if we aim for a life of pleasure alone.

People find meaning through belonging, when we are understood, recognized, and affirmed by friends, family members, partners, colleagues and even strangers, we feel we belong to a community.

Through purpose, when we have long term goals in life that reflect our values, we tend to imbue our activities with more meaning. Having a purpose has been tied to many positive outcomes, including increased learning and better health.

Through storytelling, sharing your relevant experiences that have helped define your identity into a narrative.

Spring Cleaning: A Guide to Household Chemical Safety

As we age, the environment within our homes becomes increasingly important to our overall health and safety. Household chemicals can pose significant risks to seniors if not handled with caution. With mobility and sensory abilities potentially compromised, seniors are more vulnerable to accidents involving these substances. It's crucial for caregivers and seniors themselves to be aware of the potential hazards and take proactive measures to mitigate risks.

The first step in safeguarding seniors against household chemical mishaps is education. Providing clear and accessible information about the proper use, storage, and disposal of common household chemicals can empower seniors to make informed decisions. Labels should be read and understood thoroughly. Additionally, seniors should be reminded to wear appropriate protective gear, such as gloves and masks, when handling chemicals to minimize exposure.

Furthermore, simplifying the household chemical inventory can significantly reduce the risk of accidents. Seniors, particularly those living alone, may benefit from streamlining their cleaning products to include only essential items. This not only decreases the likelihood of confusion but also minimizes the potential for mixing incompatible chemicals, which can lead to hazardous reactions.

By taking these proactive steps, seniors can enjoy a safer living environment and greater peace of mind.
